A few thoughts below.

A

I don't think we need to explain why we wouldn't go with a high risk option - surely it's obvious. And remember we can't send this as protected.

A

I'll leave s22 to comment on the sharing of advice matter.

A

We probably also need to include some next steps in the email. Perhaps we could offer to call and discuss? Or suggest he gets his own legal advice (could even note we know the 3 relevant Solicitor-Generals have already informally discussed this).

A

Cheers

Hello s22 irrelevant material

À

Further to our meeting earlier today, please find below some additional questions we are proposing to obtain advice on from the Australian Government Solicitor (AGS). I would appreciate your feedback on whether we have captured your questions appropriately before we seek to obtain the legal advice?

À

I am also pursuing the question of provision of AGS advice to State and Territory governments, but that is not a simple process, I will provide further advice on this in coming days.

À

Happy to discuss.

 Good morning s22
 irreleva

A
 Thank you for your email.

A
 We are working with our legal colleagues and Attorney General's Department to seek their agreement to share some of the analysis with you. As s22 mentioned it is unlikely we will have this advice before the end of next week. As soon as we have further guidance we will let you know.

A
 I would recommend that you speak through these issues with your Solicitor General. We understand from discussions with other jurisdictions that the Solicitor Generals across Queensland, Northern Territory and Western Australia have started informal discussions around the delivery of the NAIF and are aware of the issues we are working through.

A s47B(b) & s47C
 Appreciate if you could let us know your availability this afternoon or Monday for a further discussion.
 Would any time after 2.30pm this afternoon Queensland time be suited?

However, at this stage we are unable to share any legal advice with you, although I am still pursuing options to do this. It may still take over a week to resolve this.

A

In relation to referral of powers, this is really an area where you should seek your own legal advice, as this is really a matter for States to determine. s47B(h) & s47C.

We are very happy to discuss this further with you by teleconference either tomorrow or next week. It may be useful for you to discuss this with your legal area prior to having that discussion. Please contact s22 irrelevant material to arrange this teleconference, as I will be travelling for the next few days.
