Dear Minister King,

Next Wednesday, the Prime Minister is addressing a CME industry breakfast.

As a proud CME member, Woodside would like to invite you to join our table to hear the Prime Minister outline priorities for the 2026 Budget.

Find event details below. If you're able to join, please respond to this email by COB 23 April with any dietary requirements.

We hope you can join us.

Prime Minister Industry Breakfast

On the eve of the first budget of the Albanese Government's historic second term win, the Chamber of Minerals and Energy WA will host the Prime Minister for a breakfast address and in-conversation session.

The fifth budget of the Albanese Government is being formed under the backdrop of global conflict and tightened energy markets. Never has there been a more important time for the engine room of Australia's economy, the West Australian resources industry, to hear from the Prime Minister on Australia's economic outlook and the government's response to the fuel security challenges we face.

A central focus of the Prime Minister's address will be fuel security and the role Western Australia's resources sector plays in keeping the nation operating. This is a timely opportunity to hear how the Government is approaching these challenges, and what it means for Australia's place in an increasingly contested world.

The Prime Minister will then join CME CEO Aaron Morey for an in-conversation session to unpack the implications for industry and the road ahead.

7.00am registration for a 7.30am start.

Dear Minister

I am delighted to be writing to you as Woodside's new CEO and Managing Director.

It is an honour to be chosen to lead this great Australian company, with a decades-long track record of reliable energy supply and significant contributions to Western Australia and the nation.

I have always appreciated your collaborative and supportive approach towards Woodside as Minister, and your public leadership and advocacy for our industry.

With more gas supply needed to support ongoing energy security and prosperity for Australia through the energy transition, I look forward to working with your government on constructive ways to unlock investment and take forward new projects.

Woodside has strong foundations in place for long-term growth and value, and my focus as CEO will be on the reliable and responsible delivery of our business priorities and commitments to stakeholders.

We are at a significant moment in Woodside's history, as we chart a course for long-term growth and value through the energy transition.

Contributing to this future success as Woodside CEO is a tremendous opportunity, and one I feel very privileged to be part of.

In 2026 we have a number of important milestones to deliver, including transfer of operatorship of the Bass Strait Assets, completion of the Chevron asset swap, and delivery of the Scarborough Energy Project towards first LNG cargo in the fourth quarter of 2026.

I look forward to your continued support as we deliver these commitments and continue laying the foundations for Woodside to remain a successful and responsible energy company that delivers for the people of Western Australia and Australia.

I will reach out to you again at an early opportunity to arrange a meeting, and discuss how Woodside can continue our valued relationship with you and your government.

Yours sincerely

Dear Minister,

RESPONSE TO NOTICE OF INTENTION TO CONSIDER A DOMESTIC SHORTFALL QUARTER UNDER THE AUSTRALIAN DOMESTIC GAS SECURITY MECHANISM

Thank you for your letter dated 1 April 2026 advising of your intention to consider whether to determine quarter 3 (Q3) of 2026 as a domestic shortfall quarter under the Australian Domestic Gas Security Mechanism (ADGSM).

Woodside Energy takes its responsibility to contribute to local energy security seriously and supports the objective of the ADGSM to ensure that there is sufficient supply of natural gas to meet the forecast needs of Australian gas consumers.

As you note in your letter, as a joint venture partner of the Gippsland Basin Joint Venture and the Kipper Unit Joint Venture, Woodside is a gas producer supplying the east coast market. Natural gas produced from these Bass Strait assets is 100% dedicated to the Australian domestic market and currently supplies approximately 40% of Australian east coast domestic gas demand.

Woodside notes that the east coast gas market is currently well supplied, with Victorian and NSW gas market prices, based on public information, averaging below $10/GJ for the first half of April 2026. Woodside expects the east coast market to continue to be well supplied into Q3 2026 and does not expect an east coast domestic gas shortfall to materialise. While the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission (ACCC) highlighted a potential east coast supply-demand shortfall in its Gas Inquiry March 2026 interim report, Woodside notes that the Australian Energy Market Operator's (AEMO) recently released Gas Statement of Opportunities (GSOO) did not forecast east coast shortfalls until 2029.

I am pleased to confirm that Woodside will continue to make all spare capacity from its Bass Strait assets available each day via the east coast spot markets and that expected plant capacity continues to be communicated regularly to AEMO via the Gas Bulletin Board.

Australia has two distinct, physically separate gas markets – the east coast (including the Northern Territory) and the west coast in Western Australia. As such, Woodside appreciates your advice that any ADGSM determination would recognise that some of Australia's LNG projects are located in a part of the domestic market where Australian consumers would be unaffected by any forecast shortfall, and your proposal to grant those projects an Unlimited Volume permission in the event that a domestic shortfall was determined.

With AEMO forecasting east coast shortfalls from 2029, Woodside underscores the importance of bringing new supply online. This requires a stable investment and policy environment, supported by predictable and efficient regulatory approvals. Woodside looks forward to continued engagement in support of a transparent, efficient and investment-enabling gas market to provide reliable and affordable energy to Australian consumers and regional partners.

Yours sincerely

Dear Minister King

Breyden Lonnie has been appointed as the Executive Vice President Australian Operations, replacing Liz Westcott. Breyden will be in Canberra from Tuesday 12 May and Wednesday 13 May. I understand that this is a busy week, however if you have 20 minutes it would be great to introduce you to Breyden , given his new role at Woodside.

Breyden has been with Woodside for over 20 years and held several positions in that time both in Australia and overseas.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Dear Minister

Liz Westcott, the newly appointed CEO of Woodside, will be in Canberra from June 29 to July 2 and is keen to arrange a meeting with you during this period. Liz would like to discuss several items of mutual interest, including the Domestic Gas Reservation Scheme, the recent Deloitte EIA for the Browse to North West Shelf Project, PRRT, and to provide an update on Woodside's global activities.

Can I please take this opportunity to thank you for your speech in the Federation Chamber on Wednesday 3 June. Your support for gas and the industry is very much appreciated.

We would welcome the opportunity to share perspectives and to better understand the Government's priorities in these areas and look forward to meeting at time convenient to you and your office.

Dear Minister King

I wanted to draw your attention to today's announcement that Woodside and Alcoa have agreed a new domestic gas supply arrangement for Western Australia: Woodside and Alcoa agree new domestic gas supply

This agreement highlights the strength of Western Australia's domestic gas framework, and the critical role reliable gas supply continues to play in supporting the State's industrial base and broader economy.

Importantly, this outcome is a practical example of a well-functioning domestic gas market. Western Australia's policy framework has consistently ensured reliable and competitive supply for local industry, while continuing to support investment and development.

Woodside remains committed to supporting a transparent and efficient domestic gas market, and to working constructively with governments to ensure gas continues to underpin Western Australia's economic strength and energy security.

Please let me know if you would like any further detail.
