Dear Director

Investigation No. 633 - Review of Measures on aluminium extrusions exported from P R China Submission by Alspec Australia

We refer to the recent submission by Alspec Australia Pty Ltd ('Alspec') (Invest 633, EPR Document No. 007) concerning Lunar Metal Trading Pty Ltd's application for the review of anti-dumping measures applicable to Guangdong Xingfa Aluminium Co., Ltd ("Xingfa Aluminium").

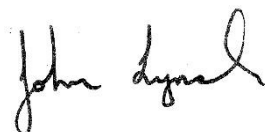

Alspec has made comments about the anti-dumping measures that currently apply to aluminium extrusions exported from China, Malaysia and Thailand. Specifically, Alspec has proposed revoking the anti-dumping measures currently applicable to South-East countries (i.e. China, Malaysia and Thailand). Alspec claims it is "advocating for adjustments or revocation of dumping measures on essential intermediate products". Alspec also states it is "seeking to safeguard Alspec's competitiveness and sustain downstream industries..."

INEX Independent Extrusions ("INEX") does not agree with Alspec's request for revocation of the anti-dumping measures. INEX supports effective anti-dumping measures that apply to injurious exports to Australia of aluminium extrusions from China, Malaysia and Thailand.

It is further noted that Alspec is concerned about certain "essential intermediate products" to which the antidumping measures apply. The Anti-Dumping Commission ("the Commission") has confirmed that the aluminium extrusions imported from China, Malaysia and Thailand that fall within the scope of the anti-dumping notice were exported at dumped and injurious prices. The anti-dumping measures are therefore correctly applicable to the claimed intermediate products.

Alspec's views concerning the revocation of measures and the application of measures to the referenced "essential intermediate products" are not supported by INEX.
