Explanation of due date and receipt date for response to exporter questionnaire

This file note explains the discrepancy between the due date and the date stamped as received on the applicant's response to the exporter questionnaire (REQ).

The cover of the REQ retains the due date of 9 April 2026. This reflects the original response deadline communicated to the applicant at the time the questionnaire was issued.

The cover of the REQ bears a received stamp dated 29 April 2026, which reflects the date on which the commission received the final version of the response that was accepted for record-keeping and publication purposes.

The later receipt date does not alter the original due date specified in the REQ. The commission retained the original due date on the document to accurately reflect the procedural timeline and the requirements originally communicated to the party.

This file note is placed on the EPR to ensure transparency and to clarify the context for the differing dates appearing on the published REQ.
