Description: The Burrendong Wind Farm (the Project) is a proposed wind power development located on the traditional lands of the Wiradjuri Aboriginal Nation, within the Dubbo Regional Council and Mid-Western Regional Council Local Government Areas in New South Wales. The Project Site is about 35 km west of Mudgee, covering the suburbs of Yarragal, Yarrabin, Hargraves, Mumbil, and Dripstone. The Project involves the installation, operation, maintenance, and decommissioning of up to 70 wind turbine generators (and associated infrastructure), each up to 250 meters in height with a nameplate capacity of approximately 6-7 MW. This will result in an estimated installed generating capacity of approximately 400-500 MW. As of April 2026, the project is in the final stages of securing its planning and environmental approvals with the NSW Department of Planning, Housing & Infrastructure. Once these approvals are in place the project is expected to commence engineering design enabling procurement processes to commence. All procurement entities that are appointed will be contractually required to comply with, and report against, the approved AIP plan.
