Dear Sir/Ms,

Subject: Investigation No. 691

Request for the Commission to exercise its discretion to accept and consider our late Preliminary Information Request submission

Larkcop International Co. Ltd (Larkcop), the exporter in China, submits this request in relation to Investigation No. 691 concerning aluminium windows and doors exported from China. Synergy Facades CO., LTD (Synergy) is the manufacturer. The relevant entity details are appropriately recorded in the Preliminary Information Request, which is enclosed for the Commission's consideration.

Larkcop and Synergy were unfortunately not provided with an opportunity to participate in the original investigation and was not contacted to participate. If we were invited to participate, we would have co-operated fully as we have a strong client relationship with our singular Australian client who supplies and installs façade systems within the Australian market.

We were not made aware of the investigation until our only Australian client was notified of the initial investigation report on 15 October 2026.

On that basis, Synergy and Larkcop kindly request that the Commissioner use to review this late submission and invites the Commissioner to carry out an investigation on our operations. We will fully co-operate with any requests made.

Background

Larkcop, the relevant exporter, holds the export licence in China. Synergy is the manufacturer of façade systems, including, most relevantly, Window Walls.

Both Larkcop and Synergy do not own any specific façade systems at all, nor does it hold any IP in respect of the façade systems. For the Australian market, each of the systems manufactured are proprietary systems owned by their sole client, under the banner of several entities. The systems we manufactured for our client are tested to AS4284 as a building facades as opposed to just being tested to AS2047, which is only for windows and external glazed doors in buildings

Unlike other suppliers, our window wall façade systems manufactured in accordance to our Australian client specific to each project and typically incorporates a range of other cladding materials porcelain tiles, GRC, brick slips and terracotta tiles, which are therefore not a typical windows, The systems also accommodate service penetrations where required.

Synergy manufactures strictly to its customers in the Australia, USA and UK markets and those systems are limited to façade systems for commercial buildings and high-rise residential apartments, not low rise or stand-alone domestic homes.

Synergy does not manufacture or supply façade systems within China. It is solely export oriented.

Anti-Dumping Notices

Neither Larkcop nor Synergy were contacted about the anti-dumping investigation, and neither entity was aware of the investigation or given the opportunity to participate before it was brought to our attention on 15 October 2026 through our sole Australian client. We acknowledge that the deadline for responding has passed.

Had either entity been aware of the investigation, we would have taken steps to participate and provide the requested information within the prescribed timeframe.

We reiterate that we are committed to cooperating fully with the Commission and providing any further information required to assist with its investigation.

Request to exercise discretion

We kindly request that the Commission exercise its discretion to accept and consider our late submission.

We also respectfully request that the Commission reconsider our position when making its determination, with a view to treating us as a cooperative exporter.

We appreciate the Commission's consideration of our circumstances and look forward to its response.

Sincerely.

Larkcop International Co.,Ltd
